

Here at Newlands we aim high!

We recognise that all our children's goals and future needs are different and together we aim to develop successful learners who:-

- are confident in their skills and talents;
- enjoy learning and are motivated to achieve the best they can, both now and in the future;
- engage in activities and opportunities;
- respond positively to new experiences;
- are creative, resourceful and able to identify and solve problems;
- communicate well in a range of ways;
- relate well to others and form positive relationships;
- know how to keep themselves safe, including managing their own behaviours, needs and responses;
- become increasingly independent and able to make choices for themselves;
- can work co-operatively with and respect others;
- have a high sense of self-worth and personal identity.
